NOTICE
TO TAXPAYERS
—OF THE—
COUNTY OF SAN MATEO
For the Year 1907

ALL TAX-PAYERS ARE REQUIRED BY law to annually make and deliver to the Assessor a statement, under oath, setting forth specifically all the real and personal property owned by such person, or in his possession, or under his control, at 12 o'clock meridian on the

FIRST MONDAY IN MARCH

Accordingly you are requested to fill out the assessment blanks in question and deliver the same at the office of the Assessor immediately, making oath thereto.

The property of all persons who refuse or neglect to furnish such statement will be arbitrarily assessed; and such assessment will not be subject to equalization. Refusal to furnish the statement above required will subject the person refusing to a fine of $100.

A State Poll Tax of $2, if paid before the first Monday in July, and if not paid until after said date, then $3 is required of every male inhabitant of this county over 21 and under 60 years of age, except paupers, insane persons and Indians, not taxed; and a demand upon all persons liable therefor is hereby made for the payment of same, either at this office or to the deputies in the field.

Any information relating to the assessments will be furnished upon application to the Assessor's office.

C. D. HAYWARD,
County Assessor.

ILLEGAL FISHING

It is learned that the streams of the county are being robbed of trout by poachers and game hogs who will not wait until the season opens. From now on the Fish and Game Commission will have the creeks patrolled, and if any offender is caught he will be punished to the full extent of the law. Owing to the vast quantity of water in the streams, caused by the heavy rains, large schools of salmon and trout have gone up to the headwaters and there will be excellent fishing for all when the season opens in May if the game hog can be kept at bay.

FORGING AHEAD

The Berkeley Gazette, edited by F. W. Richardson, is making wonderful progress. It has just installed a direct telegraph wire in its office and is getting the full Scripps News Association service of 8000 words a day. This service is undoubtly the best service furnished to any newspaper in the state. Editor Richardson has brought the Gazette to a high standard of excellence. The paper is one of the best evening papers in the state.

TOWN COUNCIL

At the adjourned meeting of the Board of Town Trustees on Monday evening there were only present Chairman Havey and Trustees Foley and Hynding.

City Attorney Kincaid presented specifications, which were adopted by the board, for sidewalks on Mound street, from Main to county road. The specifications provide for oiled rock sidewalks to be full width from the curb to the property line with a slope of one-third of an inch to the foot, to be finished flush with curb. Subgrade to be two inches below sidewalk surface, then a layer of gravel to fill. This will be oiled with mineral oil, one gallon to a square yard of surface, and to be applied hot. After oil coating the surface to be covered with sand to take up surplus oil and then rolled compact.

The board decided to have the following streets surveyed, and specifications prepared for their improvement;

Second street to D street.
Third street to D street.
Fourth street to D. street.
Sixth street to C street.
Seventh street to D street.
Eighth street to C street.
B street from First to Fourth.
B street from Fifth to Eighth.
C street from First to Eighth.
D street from Second to Seventh.
Webster street entire length.
Franklin street entire length.
Jackson street from Railroad to County Road.
Main street from Bridge to Franklin.
Madison street from Franklin to County Road.
Maple street from Hamilton to Main.
Cassia street from Stambaugh to Mound.
Elm street from Stambaugh to Phelps; from Heller to Lathrop.
Cedar street from Stambaugh to County Road.
Chestnut street from Stambaugh to County Road.
Heller street from Mound street to Chestnut.
Phelps street from Chestnut to easterly end.
Main street from asphaltum street to northerly end.
Roosevelt Avenue, entire length.
Monroe street from Railroad to Franklin street.

On these streets, except Roosevelt avenue, a subgrade of six inches was ordered.

City Attorney Kincaid was directed to prepare separate specifications for Roosevelt avenue, which should have a subgrade of seven inches.

The street superintendent was directed to have all the streets, which are now in bad condition rolled to smoothen them for travel.

POMPEIAN MASSAGE CREAM

is today indispensable on the dressing table of gentlewoman or gentleman. Not only does a Pompeian Massage perfectly cleanse the skin, but it removes wrinkles and blackheads, takes out stiffness of the facial muscles, animates the tissues, and makes the flesh firm and solid. Men use Pompeian Cream after shaving—it flexes the muscles and takes away shaving soreness. Most women recognize the value of this preparation in maintaining a clear and healthy skin.

BOARD OF TRADE MEET

The Officers Submit Reports Which are Satisfactory to Members.

The members of the Merchants' Board of Trade met at the office of their secretary Tuesday evening for their annual meeting. The attendance was large as a number of matters of importnce were up for consideration.

The retiring officers submitted their annual reports, which met with approval and were filed fr future reference.

The Smelter Committee was called upon for a report of progress, and Mr. Walsh verbally stated what had been ascertained to date, but that the committee was not ready at this time to make anyrecommendations in the matter. Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Thorpe added something to what Mr. Walsh had stated in regard to the situation and these gentlemen were interrogated by a number of the members of the board in regard to the question. The subject is considered one of great imporatnce to the community, and the committee was continued in office and requested to push their investigation of the subject that its report be exhaustive.

Messrs Hull, Walsh and Thorpe were appointed delegates to attend the meeting of the Peninsula Promotion League at South San Francisco and were directed tomake personal investigation on the ground at that point relative to the location of the smelting plan.

The Banquet Committee reported they had matters well in hand and that things looked most favorable for a very enjoyable and profitable evening.

President P. P. Chamberlain having served two terms in the office declined the honor for the third term, and Vice President A. D. Walsh was elected president, Guy P. Hull, a member of the Executive Committee, was selected as vice president, and F. H. Thorpe was re-elected secretary and attorney.

Thieving Chaulteur Arrested.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Bartlett on Saturday arrested W. H. Taylor, the chaffeur, formerly in he employ of E. J. de Sabala, who decamped last week with several articles belonging to his employer, including two of his finest suits of clothes. Taylor who had hitherto born a good reputation, in his haste to leave, also neglected to settle his board bill at the Perkchon House. Warrants were issued for his arrest, and he was arrested on Saturday, as before stated, and brought back. He made a atissfactory settlement with the people he had wronged, and as they refused ot further prosecute he wasdischarged. He was taken into custody about 9 o'clock Saturday morning and was found to have upon his person a first-class steamship ticket for New York and was to have embarked on the voyage at noon. His departure was of course, delayed, but now that he is out of trouble will depart on the next steamer.

Sues for an Accounting

Chas. McDonald has commenced a suit in the Superior Court against his partner, C. Duthie for an accounting. They entered into a verbal agreement of copartnership last June to do a general plastering business in the County of Santa Clara and County of San Mateo. They did a profitable business but on February of this year defendant refused to recognize plaintiff as his partner and refused to account to him of the business of the firm. McDonald asks for an accounting of the firm and a final adjustment of the affairs of firm and that said copartnership be dissolved and that the propery of the firm be sold and divided.

FAMILY DISPUTES.

How They Were Once Settled by Fair Fight in Court.

In some parts of Germany in days gone by when the relations of husband and wife became strained, so to speak—in other words, when each returning day gave birth to new squabbles and the man's hand was as ready as the woman's tongue—the couple were brought before the magistrate, who, after listening to recriminations, ordered them to prepare for the ordeal by battle. The man was placed in a cask, which was then nearly filled with sand, so that he was covered up to the waist. In some towns a pit was kept handy for the purpose, just as the ducking stool was kept on Bankside, opposite St. Paul's. When he was thus half buried, the man received a short stick for his right hand, while his left hand was tied up across his chest. He was thus one armed and could only deliver his blows if his opponent came near enough.

The lady put on a linen garment, the right sleeve of which was lengthened. In the end was tied up a stone. The sleeve projected about twelve inches beyond her hand. She had thus a formidable weapon, but in order to use it she had to get close to her enemy. Now, observe the situation and the chances. If she succeeded in bringing the stone down upon her husband's head, she might knock him senseless; she might even brain him, but in order to do so she would expose herself to the full blow of his stick. The battle might, in fact, be settled by a single assault. But mark the craftiness of man. It was better to make a woman ridiculous than to knock her silly. The husband, therefore, if he was a philosopher, did not try to hit his wife. He warded her blows with his stick. He tried to catch the sleeve upon his stick. Then the stone flew round and round, and the lady was caught. She could not move, and the victorious husband dragged her, unwilling, head first into his cask.—London Queen.

The Mystic Number Five.

Five is the great sacred Chinese number. There are five virtues, five colors (yellow, white, green, red and black), five household gods, five planets (Saturn, Venus, Jupiter, Mars and Mercury), five ranks of nobility, five tastes, five cardinal points (the middle, east, west, south and north respectively) and five tones.

DIVIDES THE WORLD.

The Line That Marks Where Day Begins and Ends.

IT TRAVERSES THE PACIFIC.

The Way This Important Boundary Came to Be Established — Spots Where Today, Tomorrow and Yesterday Are Still a Confused Jumble.

It is evident that the day must begin somewhere, though it is a confusing thing to undertake to determine just where, for one may go on and on around the world and never catch up with it. On the other hand, if we are not careful in reasoning we will reach the absurd conclusion that it is Monday noon and Tuesday noon at the same time in any given place.

A writer in the St. James' Gazette treats this peculiar phase of the subject in a very definite way.

Seeing that as one moves westward the time gets earlier and earlier, so that when it is Monday noon in London it is some time on Monday morning in America, it follows that, if this principle were continued without limit halfway round the world, at the same moment that it was Monday noon in London it would be also twenty-four hours later—that is, Tuesday noon—in London. As this is reductio ad absurdum, we have to look for the limit, which does, in fact, exist, on the principle that as one moves westward the time gets earlier and as one moves eastward it gets later.

Before the circumnavigation of the globe there was no difficulty. When on a Monday the sun stood over London it was Monday noon in London. As the sun moved (to use the popular phrase) westward and stood a little later over Dublin it became Monday noon in Dublin, and so on until it reached the western limit of the known world.

When the sun passed over that limit, that was the end of noon for that Monday, and nobody knew what the sun was doing until he reappeared on the eastern limit of the known world, bringing with him Tuesday morning.

It is evident, therefore, that while the sun was in the unknown abyss between west and east he dropped the attribute of making the time at all places directly under his rays Monday noon and took to himself the attribute of making it Tuesday noon.

As the confines of the world were pushed farther eastward and westward, respectively, the unknown abyss where this change of attribute had to be made got narrower and narrower until, when the globe was circumnavigated, the place of change became simply a line.

This line exists and is the place where the days begin. As the sun crosses this remarkable spot the time jumps twenty-four hours onward—from noon one day to noon on the next day. The situation of the line has been located quite fortuitously—namely, by the circumstance whether any given place was first reached by civilized man journeying from the east or from the west.

The discoverer brought with him the almanac from whence he came, and if he came from the west the time in the new country would be later, and if he came from the east it would be earlier than the time in the country he came from.

America was reached by civilized man voyaging westward and China by man travelling eastward, and the result is that the line that marks where the days begin lies between these two in the Pacific ocean and, instead of being a straight line, zigzags about, dividing islands which happened to be discovered from the east from those which happened to be discovered from the west.

There must still be many islands in that ocean where it is not yet decided to which side of the line they belong and where, if one were put down, one would not know whether it were today, tomorrow or yesterday.

There must also be many islands there which, never having been permanently occupied by civilized people, change their day from time to time, so that a ship calling there coming from China might arrive on Tuesday, while another ship calling at the same time from America would arrive on Monday. There must be people living so near this line that by going a few miles they can leave today and get into tomorrow or, by going back, can find yesterday.

A Dame School in England, 1837.

On a perch forming a triangle with the corner of the room sat a cock and two hens. Under a stump bed immediately beneath was a dog kennel in the occupation of three black terriers, whose barking, added to the noise of the children and the cackling of the fowls on the approach of a stranger, was almost deafening. There was only one small window, at which sat the teacher, obstructing three-fourths of the light it was capable of admitting.—Parliamentary Report.

The Number Three.

Three, which since the days of Pythagoras has been the divine number, is not invariably fortunate, for, though the fates are three, so also are the furies. The graces are three, but so also are the judges in hades and the heads of Cerberus. Then there are the records of three disloyal tribes in Welsh history; there are the three robbers in Orion's belt; there were the three tyrants at Athens, and 3 in mythology is as unlucky as it is divine.

Rapid Change.

"My hair turned from raven black to snowy white in a single night."
"That's nothing. I went into a pawnbroker's shop once and stayed only fifteen minutes. When I came out my watch had turned from gold to silver."

Must Have Read It.

He (virtuously)—I call it simply outrageous for the newspapers to print all this terrible stuff. She (sternly)—How do you know it is terrible?—Baltimore American.

LAMARTINE'S PRESENT.

How the French Author Got a Big Price For a Little Poem.

Francois Buloz, the founder and editor of the famous French journal, La Revue des Deux Mondes, was by no means celebrated for his generosity to contributors. One day shortly after the publication of Lamartine's "Les Girondins," and while the literary world was ringing with the fame of its great author, Buloz called on him and asked him to write an article for his magazine. Lamartine consented, but stated that he could not have it ready for some weeks.

Buloz, fearing that this was only an excuse and that he would never get the article, offered Lamartine an advance. It so happened that the author was in need of 4,000 francs at that time, and he so informed the editor, who at once handed over the money. Three months later he called Lamartine's attention to the fact that the contribution had not yet been received. It was toward the end of 1847, and the great author was devoting his entire time to politics.

"While you are waiting for this article would you care for a little poem I have here?" he asked Buloz.

He enthusiastically replied in the affirmative.

Months later, when Lamartine had become minister of foreign affairs, Buloz again called upon him to remind him of the promised contribution.

"But you see my position," answered the minister, "how busy I am!"

Buloz frowned.

"But, citizen minister, a certain amount of money was advanced, and the interests of my magazine do not permit me to"—

"How much was it?"

"Four thousand francs."

Lamartine took this amount of money from the drawer and laid it upon his desk.

The editor, however, looked somewhat embarrassed.

"Well, what more can I do for you? You have your money."

"The fact is, I owe you for a small poem."

"Oh, that's not worth mentioning! I'll make you a present of it."

Buloz drew himself up haughtily.

"Citizen minister, La Revue des Deux Mondes does not accept presents. How much do I owe you?"

"Oh, well, if you insist," answered Lamartine dryly as he took up the 4,000 francs and replaced them in his drawer, "we will call it square!"

ODD CUSTOMS.

Every house must be decked with flowers on New Year's day in Japan.

In Buenos Ayres the police alone have the right of whistling on the streets. Any other person whistling is at once arrested.

In Ashanti many families are forbidden the use of certain meats. In like manner others are forbidden to wear clothes of a certain color.

If a carriage upsets or injures another carriage in the streets of St. Petersburg or if a person is knocked down, the horses of the offending vehicle are seized and confiscated to the use of the fire brigade.

It is the practice of the Ashantees and Fantees to bury one-third of the property of a dead man, converted into gold dust, under his head, and rifling the grave of an enemy is considered the proper action for a warrior.

Clapping the hands in various ways is the polite method in central Africa of saying "Allow me," "I beg pardon," "Permit me to pass" and "Thanks." It is resorted to in respectful introduction and leave taking.

Doves and Religion.

"One thing I remarked and think worthy of notice is that ever since Noah's dove every religion seems to consider the pigeon as a sacred bird. For example, every mosque swarms with pigeons, and the same exists in most Italian market places. The Hindoo pundits and the old Assyrian empire also have them, while Catholics make it the emblem of the Holy Ghost."

Lady Burton in her account of the Mohammedan mystery play of "Hassan and Hossein" says:

"Then comes the bier with Hossein's corpse and his son sitting upon it sorrowing and embracing him and a beautiful white dove in the corner whose wings are dabbled with blood. The effect upon the excited crowd is awful."—"Life of Sir Richard F. Burton."

His Share.

A gamekeeper found a boy fishing in his master's private waters.

"You mustn't fish here!" he exclaimed. "These waters belong to the Earl of A."

"Do they? I didn't know that," replied the culprit, laying aside his rod. He then took up a book and commenced reading.

The keeper departed, but on returning about an hour afterward found the same youth had started fishing again.

"Do you understand that this water belongs to the Earl of A.?" he roared.

"Why, you told me that an hour ago!" exclaimed the angler, in surprise. "Surely the whole river doesn't belong to him? His share went by long ago!"—London Telegraph.

No Hessians Need Apply.

Aunt Sally Linnekin was looking admiringly at a collection of souvenir postal cards brought back from Europe by one of her summer boarders.

"Now, this one," said he, showing a handsome card, "is from Hesse, where those Hessian soldiers came from, you know."

Aunt Sally put down the cards and rose up in intense indignation.

"Land sakes!" she exclaimed in horror. "Did you go there?"

No Secret.

"Well, well," exclaimed Miss Passay, "so she's twenty-five today. I guess it would surprise her if I should tell her I was the same age."

"Oh, no," replied Miss Knox; "she knows that, of course."

"She knows that I'm twenty-five?"

"No; that you were."—Philadelphia Press.
